

Granville Williams

Mechanic
Domino Sugar Refinery

Bronx, New York

Williams came to the United States from Jamaica as a trained mechanic. He decided to take a job as a laborer at the Domino Sugar Refinery with the goal of working his way up.

INTERESTING FACT

Today, Williams is the mechanic over all of the Domino Sugar Refinery's centrifuge machines.

WHEN YOU LOOK BACK, HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT YOUR CAREER?

"I have no regrets. If I had it to do all over again, I would do the same thing again. I was able to take care of my family the way I wanted to and take care of myself."

WHAT DO THE JOBS AT THE REFINERY MEAN FOR THE COMMUNITY?

"They do a lot for the community because there's a lot of workers that live in Yonkers that work here. And also employees that live as far away as Long Island and Connecticut that work here and even further. If the job wasn't good, I don't think they would travel that far for it."
